Canada Stops Negro Immigrants.

The Canadian government Friday decided to stop the immigration of negroes from the United States and stopped at the boundary a party which intended to go to Western Canada. The negroes were stopped because they were regarded as undesirable citizens.

School Boys Serve as Jurors.

The case of the Commonwealth against Thomas Daugherty for the alleged sale of soft liquor which proved intoxicating, was tried in the Bath County Circuit Court before a jury composed of school boys, their ages ranging from 13 to 18 years. Both juries being out on other cases, Judge Allie W. Young ordered Sheriff Botts to go to the city school and select twelve of the boys, who were taken to the court room and placed in the regular jury box. After hearing the evidence they retired to the jury room and after being out about twenty-five minutes, returned with the verdict, fixing the fine at $25.

Maysville Preachers Oppose Sunday Base Ball

The first step towards preventing Sunday base ball at Maysville this season was taken Friday when seven preachers issued a lot of resolutions calling on the people to stay away from the games. Four pastors refused to sign it. The latter are Rev. Messrs. Benn, Clarke and Hayxmere, and Father P. M. Jones.

Carlisle May Have New Warehouse.

There is a movement on foot to organize a loose leaf tobacco warehouse for Carlisle. For some weeks there has been much talk of a move, and it is given out that one and probably two loose leaf markets will be opened in that city. The men behind the movement say that they have met with sufficient encouragement to insure the success of the project, and that now the market is assured.

Honor Bestowed on Laura Perry Davis.

The initial step in the perpetuation of Southern sentiment as exemplified by the Daughters of the Confederacy, was taken Friday when, at a meeting of Richard Hawes Chapter, little Miss Laura Perry Davis, granddaughter of the late Benjamin Perry, thrice Mayor of Paris, was unanimously elected a member of the chapter.

Miss Davis is the first granddaughter of a Southern soldier to be so honored and it is expected that within a few years quite a number will be added to the membership roll of the chapter.

The chapter met at 2 o'clock in their apartments in the court house and was called to order by the president, Mrs. W. G. Talbott. Mrs. H. J. Neely was in charge of the program, the first number of which was a story of the privations experienced by two Nicholas county soldier boys who enlisted in the cause and fought their way through the thickest of every fight, which was read by Mrs. John Connell.

Mrs. W. O. Hinton followed with an interesting paper after which the chapter listened to a reminiscence by Mrs. C. M. Thomas of the surrender of General Cero Gordo Williams, in which he and his staff were humiliated by the cutting away of their epaulettes. Mrs. Lucy Johnson Wilson read an original story of how a Southern girl, the daughter of a Southern soldier, helped to earn money while her father was at the front, by picking blackberries and carving watermelon rinds.

Mrs. B. M. Shive and Mrs. Rosa Buckner were the visitors in attendance. Mrs. Lytleton Purnell and Misses Flora Hill and Laura Perry Davis were admitted to membership. A delightful luncheon was served, Mrs. Russell Mann and Mrs. Laura Perry being the hostesses.

Base Ball Notes.

Umpire Louis Knapp, who last season held the indicator in the Blue Grass League, will next season hold a like position in the Kansas State League, an organization of the same class as the Blue Grass. Knapp is considered to be one of the best umpires in Kentucky and began his career in the city of Louisville where he distinguished himself in the City League and has only followed the profession three years. Last summer the work of Knapp attracted the attention of President Ussery and he was immediately signed by the latter to work in the Blue Grass League circuit. His good work was the real talk of the base ball critics throughout the circuit. After working for about three months Knapp became discouraged, following several attacks made upon his decisions by hot headed fans, and on one occasion he was assaulted by a player, returning to Louisville where he signed up with an independent organization. Last season in that city he umpired a number of games between the National and American League clubs and made a very favorable impression. Knapp has many friends in Paris who hope to see him make good in the new league.

Held on Serious Charge.

In the court of Judge J. T. Clay at Carlisle, William Miller, a barber of that city, waived examination and was held to the Nicholas county grand jury under a bond of $300, which he gave, on a charge of seduction.

Mangled Body Found on Railroad Track.

The body of an unidentified man, thought to be a Hungarian, was found at Maysville Sunday morning alongside the C. & O. railway tracks. His head was torn off from the eyes back, both arms were cut off, one leg cut off above the ankle and the other at the foot.

The body was taken in charge by Coroner Slack, who is holding it for identification. This is the third man found dead on the railroad tracks in Maysville since the first of January.

Vreeland Defeated for Fair Secretary.

Hubert Vereand, of Louisville, Saturday failed of election to the State Fair Secretaryship at a meeting of the fair board in Mt. Sterling. The Vreeland sympathizers were sorely disappointed, it is said, as they expected him to be successful.

It is rumored that a "deal" was planned, whereby the Republican members were to be given three clerkships, and in return Vreeland was to be put over for the secretaryship. The Republicans were willing to stand by the agreement reached, it is rumored, although the Vreeland supporters thought they would secure to much patronage and desired a change.

Vreeland's failure to secure election was a great surprise and the meeting adjourned to meet again at the call of the chairman, Commissioner of Agriculture Rankin.

Nicholas Farmers Want Good Roads.

The question of good roads is being discussed by the farmers of Nicholas county, and unusual interest is being manifested. The cause of the present agitation is the bad condition of all of the roads throughout the county, and all are trying to devise ways and means whereby the present road system might be improved. Nicholas county has only a limited amount of money considering the total mileage of public roads in the county, and thus the lack of funds has been a great handicap. Citizens who are well posted on the good roads question say that this is the only solution to the problem and are in hopes that the land owners will take up the question and assist in the work of improving the highways of Nicholas county.

..... PAYABLE IN ADVANCE.....What the March Woman's Home Companion Contains.

You will read all about the latest spring fashions in the March Woman's Home Companion. This always interesting and beautiful magazine has outdone itself in its presentation of the beauties and mysteries of my lady's spring wardrobe. Beside a complete description of the latest styles, there are dozens of illustrations of spring gowns and fabrics, many of them in colors.

This number is also an exceptionally full, complete and well-rounded out general magazine, packed from cover to cover with bright stories, fascinating art features, music and verse, special articles, and helpful departments that go deeply into the heart of all household problems. "The Flight of the Magic Carpet," a new motor story by C. N. and A. M. Williams, begins in this number. It is a highly entertaining tale of love and adventure written in the usual crisp, brilliant style of the Williamses. "The Magic Carpet" is the fanciful name of the automobile which plays an important part in the story. The fiction also includes installments of Maude Radford Warren's exciting story, "In the Land of Tomorrow," and the last part of "The Admiral's Niece," by Kate Douglas Wiggin and her collaborators. Short stories in this number are contributed by such well known authors as Mary Heaton Vorse, Fannie Heaslip Lea, Alice Brown and Gertrude King.

"What is being done in the Fight for Honest Weights and Measures" is a particularly timely article. It is a subject in which every home-maker, the country over, should take a keen and active interest. "How I Blundered as a Housekeeper" is the title of an article by Christine Terhune Herriek, in which she shows some of the pitfalls of housekeeping and puts a danger signal beside them. Gardner Teall reminds us that March is the time to start the Salad Garden.

A brilliant feature of the March Woman's Home Companion is the full color reproduction on rough art paper by Hilda Belcher, the well-known water-colorist. The picture is 11 by 16 inches in size, and is designed for framing.

Succumbs to Unknown Malady.

As the result of a peculiar and unknown malady which baffled the diagnosis of the attending physicians, J. E. French, of High Bridge, Ky., died at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Lexington Friday morning. Mr. French had been at the hospital since February 9, and was supposed to be improving, but his malady took a sudden turn for the worse two days ago, with the result that he sank rapidly until the end came at 1 o'clock Friday morning.

Physicians who had been in charge of the case, realizing the seriousness of the man's condition, called several other physicians into the case, but owing to the peculiarity of the trouble, little assistance could be offered and even up to the time of his death, no complete diagnosis of the trouble had been accomplished.

Youth Risked Life to Save Brother.

The heroism and courage displayed by little six-year-old Charlie Robertson, of near Gardysville, in Adair county, in trying to rescue his little eight-year-old brother from a mad ram should win for him a Carnegie medal.

While at play Alton Robertson was attacked and knocked down by a mad sheep. Each time the child would rise to his feet the sheep would butt him down. His little six-year-old brother noticing the battle ran to his rescue and stabbed the sheep with a Barlow. The animal made a mad rush for the little boy, knocking him down. His screams for help attracted the attention of a twelve-year-old brother a considerable distance away, who secured an ax, and after dealing the animal several stunning blows over the head severed the head from the body.

Alton was carried home seemingly dead, but after heroic work by physicians the child was revived, and if not internally injured will recover. The little six-year-old hero was painfully but not seriously hurt.

Distance of the Horizon.

At an elevation of ten feet above the sea the apparent horizon is slightly more than ten miles away.

State Banks Slow.

Many state banks and trust companies in this state have not made their report of officers elected to the Secretary of State as is required by law, and Dr. Bruner is sending out letters to all the delinquents calling attention to the failure to report. The law requires that the directors of each bank shall file with the Secretary of State the names of all the stockholders and the officers of the bank. The law requires that the report be made in January of each year.

Estill Moonshiners Captured.

Deputy Billy Mays, of Uncle Sam's force of United States marshals, brought three moonshiners last Friday morning to Richmond and they were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Warfield Bennett. They were held to the Federal court in the sum of $250 each and in default of this amount they were sent to jail. They are Joseph Blevins and his two sons, John and Joe. The officer had learned some time ago that the Blevins were in the business, but a thorough search of the surrounding country failed to locate their still. A few days ago Deputy Marshal Mays, disguised as a cattle trader went to the home of Blevins and found an up-to-date moonshine still being operated in the house. He returned to Richmond and securing warrants went back and arrested the three, after destroying the still and pouring out a large quantity of the real stuff.

Sacrifices Skin to Save Brother's Life.

At a Cincinnati Hospital Wednesday Dominic Bezold, a Kentucky lad of 19 years, sacrificed forty inches of skin from his arms, legs and body to save the life of his brother, Joseph Bezold, who several weeks ago was injured in a gasoline explosion in Cincinnati, the entire front of his body, from the shoulders to the knees, being terribly burned. His life was despaired of but he rallied. Then came the period when fresh skin must be transplanted in order to heal his terrible wounds, and his younger brother eagerly made the sacrifice, great strips being taken from his arms and legs. The doctors say both will be able to leave the hospital in a week.

Burr's Successful Flattery.

"I am all right now, thanks to Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy."

The same relief is ready for you. Are you sure you do not need it? If Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy helped Charles Holmes, why won't it help you?

"I was troubled with heart disease, and after reading about Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy, I got a bottle. Before I got the Heart Remedy I had to sit up most of the night, and felt very bad at my stomach. Whatever I would eat made me feel worse, and my heart beat very fast. But thanks to Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy, I am all right now. I eat good, sleep good, and feel like a new man, although I am almost 68 years old. I have been a soldier in the late war of the rebellion, and was badly wounded." CHARLES HOLMES, Private Co. Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Bilioussness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

The genuine has on its outside wrapper the Signature

You can't afford to accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this non-alcoholic, medicine of known composition, not even though the urgent dealer may thereby make a little bigger profit.

Playing at Death.

The mother of Ivan Turgenev, the Russian novelist, was a trying person to live with, irritable, capricious and unreasonable. On Ivan's birthday in 1845, we are told in "Two Russian Reformers," after a day of festivities, Mme. Turgenev pretended to be dying. "She sent for her confessor and, placing before her the portrait of her son Ivan, exclaimed 'Adieu, Ivan! Adieu, Nicolas! Adieu, my children!' Then she ordered her forty servants and all the men employed about the house to say goodby to her. When they had filed out of the room Mme. Turgenev declared that she felt better and asked for tea. The next day the following 'order' appeared:

"I give orders that tomorrow morning the disobedient servants, Nicolas Jacobiev, Ivan Petrof and Egor Kondratiev, shall sweep the court in front of my windows."

"Those names were those of servants who had not appeared at her bedside, possibly because they were a little drunk that evening. 'Good for nothing! Drunkards!' exclaimed Mme. Turgenev. 'They rejoice at the death of their mistress!'"

The Bank Beat the Prince.

The Gentlewoman of London recalls the following story of the prince regent and Countess' bank: "When George IV. was a regent he had a grudge against Countess and determined to play a trick on the authorities. In those days even the great banks kept very small reserves of cash, and the playful prince thought out a plan to close Countess'. So he sent his equerry round from Carlton House with a check for £100,000, fondly hoping that the bank would not be able to pay over the counter. The prince's trick, however, failed of success, as the wary old partner of the Strand bank proved equal to the occasion. He said at once to the equerry, 'How will his royal highness take the amount, in gold or notes?' The equerry hesitated and then said he had better go back to Carlton House to inquire. So he departed, and Countess' had time to send to the Bank of England and get the cash required, but it was not needed, as the prince regent, seeing that Countess' had got the best of him, did not return the check in question."

Eggs That Can't Be Found.

The eggs of some common birds of the present day have never been found. There is the robin snipe; its eggs have never been seen. An English zoologist kept a man going up and down the coast of Labrador for weeks purposely to get a robin snipe's egg, but it was in vain. The bird is known by thousands of people, but it breeds so far north and so remote from any civilization that no scientific observer can ever get to its nest ere the young are hatched and have taken to wing. The frigate bird that is so commonly seen at sea on the Pacific and off the West Indies is such a solitary bird and is so seldom seen in its nest during the hours of daylight that its egg is rare. It seems strange, but the eggs of so well known a bird as the sandpiper have never been found and are almost priceless.—London Globe.

Reversed the Proposition.

Robert Wickliffe Woolley, the writer, found it necessary not long ago to take a trip west. On the dining car of the train he saw that he had in his pocket 10 cents in change, his smallest bank note being one for $50. He handed this to the porter, who went to the end of the car for a conference with the conductor.

"I'm very sorry about this," said the conductor, standing in front of Woolley and toying with the big bill, "but we haven't the change for $50. We'll just take your address and send you the change."

Woolley calmly reached over and took possession of the banknote. "You've got nothing on me," he said. "I'll take the address of the railroad and send the price of the meal."—Chicago Record-Herald.

The Baths of Caracalla.

The Romans appear to have been well off in the matter of bathing places in the first and second centuries. In the baths of Caracalla 1,600 bathers could be accommodated at one time. The enclosed area was 360 square yards, but it included a course for foot racing. The bathing establishment was 240 yards in length by 124 wide. The remains of the walls are eight and ten feet thick and in some places as much as fifty feet high.

A Cumulative Test.

As the thin man and the stout one were talking of diet and food in general the thin man said: "You can get an excellent dinner at Clapham's, the restaurant near my office, for 25 cents. Ever try one of his dinners?"

"One of 'em! Yes, I should say I had," said the stout man. "Why, I ate four of 'em one day last week!"

The Best Thing.

"What do you mean by kissing me, Herr Frisch?"
"My aunt told me to. She told me to come and help myself to the best thing I could find in the kitchen."—Fliegende Blätter.

Just Men.

"Tuberculosis Day."

April 30th, has been set aside this year as "Tuberculosis Day" and will be observed by 200,000 churches in the country in a manner similar to that of "Tuberculosis Sunday" in 1910, when over 40,000 sermons were preached on the prevention of consumption. The Kentucky Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis states that it will make a special effort to enlist every one of over 1,200 ministers in Kentucky to give their co-operation in bringing this vitally important subject before the members of their respective churches. It is estimated that in this way over 250,000 persons in Kentucky will be enlisted in this movement.

In one respect "Tuberculosis Day" of this year will differ from "Tuberculosis Sunday" of 1910. Instead of requesting the churches to give to the Tuberculosis cause a special Sunday service, the State Association is this year going to ask that meetings at which Tuberculosis and its prevention be discussed, be held on Sunday, April 30, or on any day near that date, either in the week preceding or the week following. The object is to get as many people in Kentucky as possible to think about this great problem at the same time.

It is conservatively estimated that there are in Kentucky today at least 20,000 persons suffering from this disease in some form or other.

The State Association is planning to distribute educational leaflets in connection with this day and it is earnestly desired that the public will take an active part in stamping out this preventable disease which sends over 6,500 of our citizens to an early grave every year, and causes an economic loss to our state of over $13,000,000 annually.

Wasted Effort.

It doesn't take half the effort to smile over a trouble that it does to tell all about it to everybody you meet.

Wias Bride With Name On an Egg.

Because an egg upon which he had written his name while packing a crate for shipment East reached its destination in a fresh condition, Edward Taylor, of Alexandria, a grocer's clerk was wedded a few days ago to Miss Margaret Grayner, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Miss Grayner, when opening the egg, noted the name and address on the shell, and being struck by the freshness of the morsel of food, and the oddness of the affair, wrote to the young man more as a joke than anything else. Later photographs were exchanged, then letters, and finally Taylor journeyed down East to see in real life the object of his peculiar little romance.

Things were better in real life than on paper, and after a short courtship he returned to Alexandria. He did not write on any more eggs—he didn't have to—he was engaged and he loved the girl and the girl loved him.

Night Riders Begin Work.

The first operation of "night riders" in Bath county for the year 1911 have begun and many of the farmers who contemplated raising tobacco this year have given up the idea of doing so.

Nathan Surrell, Newton Hornback and Pat Foy, farmers of Bath county who had started to raise crops this year, prepared their beds, but a few mornings ago when they went to the plant beds each grower found a note warning him to desist under "outrageous" penalties.

At Sharpsburg, the tenant house of one of the growers was dynamited by unknown parties. The house was to be occupied March 1 by the tenant who had completed arrangements for growing a crop this year. He said that he would grow tobacco whether night riders bothered him or not. Many notes are being left at the homes of growers who are preparing to raise tobacco this year, and it is feared the cut-out will be forced in this county by the "night riders."

Many of the farmers who have heretofore stood aloof from the movement declared that they will stand by the decision of the heads of the Burley Tobacco Union.

While many of the notes have been delivered for several days, the first intimation that "night riders" were actually at work became known Thursday when several of the growers met in Owingsville and compared notes.

MATRIMONIAL.

Judge Denis Dundon Friday performed the ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Samantha E. Williams and Mr. Herbert Mattox, both of this county.

Farmers Institute Closes.

The sixth annual meeting of the Farmers' Institute in session at Mt. Sterling last week, adjourned at noon Saturday after a very interesting session. A note of thanks was extended the citizens of Mt. Sterling. The meeting was one of the most successful ever held. An invitation was extended for the meetings of the institute to be held at Paducah two years hence and Mt. Sterling is also eager to again secure the meeting.

Close Observer.

Phillip, eight years of age, already is a close if silent observer. In his town a number of men in the past few years have died, leaving their families unprotected. One day Phillip's teacher asked him to define the word "widow." "A widow," replied thoughtful Phillip, "is a poor woman with a large family who takes boarders."

Slaughter of Elephants.

There are annually killed in Africa a minimum of 65,000 elephants, yielding a quantity of raw ivory, the selling price of which is $4,250,000.

"Coronation" Latest in Head-gear.

Because his Majesty, the King of England, is to be crowned three months hence, the prevailing theme in feminine headgear for 1911 will be the "Coronation."

This pronouncement comes from delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Retail Milliners, who will be called to order here tomorrow night. Some 5,000 delegates are said to be in the city. Among the Easter creations are:

The Empire bonnet, a close fitting affair; a glorification of the hoods worn by aviators.

The Helmet hat, a reduced size of design usually given to large hats; resembling the hat of a London "Bobber."

Louis X. turban, a draped hood in two styles (a) soft; for dress; (b) high and round, of less clinging material, for the street.

Others include the classes embracing the Louis XI., the Reynolds hat of 1870, with side front turned up; the Gainsborough, and the Leghorn. For out-of-doors girls, the burial will be affected. As to trimming it is asserted that ribbon and ovals have come to stay and likewise lace ovals; the latter must be white. Among the flowers, buttercups, daisies, dandelions and sweet peas find favor. Coronation colors will predominate in the spring but probably will give way to individual needs as the season progresses.

The correctly gowned woman, in addition will add to her spring finery a large muf of Tagal straw. A male reporter with a large family bashfully inquired as to the prices, but was frowned down. He claimed to have learned from other sources; however, that the style in prices would be high and round, turned up fore, port and starboard.

Strenuous Campaign Being Waged by "Dry's."

A dispatch from Richmond says: "The 'dry's' are making a strenuous campaign in the local option election here March 3. They are holding lectures twice daily. Many noted temperance workers have made addresses, including Judge E. C. O'Rear, of the Court of Appeals, Frankfort, Prof. E. W. B. Curry, of Urbana, Ohio, and several educators of Berea College. The 'wets' are confident of carrying the election."

After the Club.

Madam—"No, you can't see my husband—he's at the club. You might wait—he's due home after a while." Caller—"But I want to see him the worst way." "You'd better wait then—he'll be that way when he comes home."

Harlan Can't Repay Borrowed $1,000.

Justice Harlan, of the United States Supreme Court, has not been able to save enough out of his salary to pay back $1,000 which he borrowed at the time of his marriage.

This statement was made to the Appropriations Committee of the House during its hearings on the surdy civil bill by Albert Rosenthal, a Philadelphia artist.

Mr. Rosenthal has partly completed a collection of paintings of former members of the Supreme bench, and has offered the collection to Congress for purchase.

He was asked by a member of the committee if he had made any paintings at the personal solicitation of the Justices.

"I have not been paid by any of them," said Mr. Rosenthal. "They all told me they were too poor to buy them. Justice Harlan said: 'I would like to have that portrait. I borrowed $1,000 when I was married, and every year since when I fix up my accounts for the year I find I still owe that $1,000.'"

"They are all too poor to buy them," said Mr. Rosenthal. "They all told me they were too poor to buy them. Justice Harlan said: 'I would like to have that portrait. I borrowed $1,000 when I was married, and every year since when I fix up my accounts for the year I find I still owe that $1,000.'"

The portrait of Mr. Justice Moody was outlined by Mr. Rosenthal before the retired Justice shaved off his mustache. Now there is some question whether the portrait with the mustache will be a proper likeness to be retained in the Supreme Court galleries, as Justice Moody in his last year on the bench was smooth shaven.

A Wonderful Spice.

Wonderful things the little brown cloves, for it makes two breaths grow where was only one breath before.

Kentucky Feudist Kills Rebel Comrade.

"Wild Bill" Hatfield, one of the famous McCoy-Hatfield feudists of Kentucky, who is an American recruit in Gen. Leyva's rebel army, shot a Mexican insurgent named Francisco Friday night. Hatfield used an automatic gun and the victim's face was shot away.

Francisco was taken to the international line by his Mexican comrades and rolled across the border. He was picked up by Red Cross attendants and taken to the hospital in Calexico, where he died. Nothing was done with Hatfield by the insurgents. It is thought the shooting may cause a feud between the American and Mexican members of the rebel army.

THEATRICAL."THE SMART SET" TO-NIGHT.

—Salem Tutt Whitney, one of the ablest and cleverest of all negro comedians, is the star of the far-famed "Smart Set" Company which will present the latest three-act musical comedy, "George Washington Bullion," at the Grand tonight. Whitney is supported by forty expert fun-makers who contribute toward an offering of merriment combining a dozen song hits, vaudeville features and original novelties and surprises. J. Homer Tutt and Daisy Peters Martin, an adroit and winsome prima donna, lend additional assistance with their talents. The production in its entirety is capital amusement and should appeal to the most exacting devotee of all that is good in up-to-date theatrical entertainment.

"THE CLIMAX."

—It is a fortunate thing for local playgoers that the struggle between the two great theatrical forces has not deterred Joseph Webber from again sending out that charming idyl of Edward Lockes, "The Climax," which last season was the dramatic delight of the country. The work of the Pittsburgh playright is so homely, so gentle, so pure, with such a powerful grasp on the heartstrings of every human being capable of feeling any of the primal passions, that it will live long in the souls and brains of those who see it, even though the satire New York manager places it in the storehouse.

With a forethought which is remarkable in this age of commercialism in things theatrical, Mr. Webber is sending out "The Climax" with a cast even better than that seen last season. Thomas Fallon is cast as Dr. Raymond; Carney Christie is the music loving Pietro; Florence Webber is the budding prima donna, and Howard Lange is the maestro, Luigi. "The Climax" will be seen at the Grand on March 8.

SPECIAL ATTRACTION AT THE COMET.

—Manager Porter, of the Comet Theatre, while in Cincinnati Wednesday arranged for the production next Wednesday at the Comet of what is conceded to be the most remarkable moving picture ever made, entitled "Lassoing Wild Animals in Africa." Col. Roosevelt, on viewing the picture, said: "A really phenomenal record of a really phenomenal feat." One of the most sensational scenes is the capture of a particularly ugly rhinoceros. It was one of the two-horned variety, and one of the horns is extra long and dangerous. After several charges, the rope-throwers got him right, and he was eventually thrown. Succeeding scenes show the capture of a zebra, a cerval cat, a cheetah, which is a sort of leopard, and finally a full grown lioness. This latter exploit was attended with great danger. Madame Lioness is eventually shown swinging from the limb of a tree, where she is properly muzzled, has her claws manicured, and is placed on a drag and hauled to camp.

In order to give everyone a chance to see the remarkable picture the Comet will open next Wednesday at ten o'clock and run continuously throughout the day. On account of the expense incident to securing the picture for this day only the price will be ten cents.

One Derby Candidate in Lexington.

The Lexington Leader says: "Rella Colston, the colored trainer, shipped his string of horses to Louisville Friday, leaving his winter quarters at the Kentucky Association track. In the bunch were the three-year-olds, Colston, Silver Brush and Princess Coloway and five two-year-olds. The shipping of Colston, who is a candidate for the Kentucky Derby, leaves only one horse eligible to start in that race at the Kentucky Association track."

"The latter is St. Aloysius, a handsome son of Stalwart, owned by Martin Doyle of Paris, and trained by Jack Baker of this city. This is the first time in the history of the local track that only one Derby candidate is being trained here. More are expected to arrive from the South soon, however."

Big Warehouse Proposed For Paris.

If the plans now in the process of development and formulated by a number of business men in this city and prominent farmers in Bourbon county are actuated by the time the 1911 crop of tobacco is ready for the market Paris will have in operation one of the largest loose leaf tobacco warehouses in Central Kentucky.

A capital stock of from $75,000 to $100,000 will be raised and the new enterprise incorporated under the name of the Farmers' and Growers' Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Company of Paris, Kentucky, and from those who have taken the initiative in the project that a sufficient amount of stock can be subscribed with but little difficulty to build and equip a warehouse second to none in the State.

A committee, it is said, will be selected at an early date to visit all the tobacco warehouses in Lexington, Danville, Richmond and Maysville with a view of inspecting their facilities for quick handling and the sale of loose leaf tobacco and to make a thorough study before planning what is likely to be the most up-to-date warehouse in the world.

It is said the matter of establishing a warehouse at this point has been under consideration for some time and that the leading manufacturers of this country had been approached by a committee representing the local enterprise and received the assurance that they would be glad to maintain representatives in this city.

That such an enterprise in Paris will succeed be, and a reasonable doubt is the belief of many who have manifested an interest. Bourbon county can be relied on to produce annually eight million pounds of tobacco and the adjacent counties of Harrison and Nicholas could produce as much more. Thousands of pounds of tobacco grown in Fleming, Scott, Clark and Montgomery counties would bring the total to more than twenty-five million pounds.

Practically all of the tobacco grown in the counties mentioned above is disposed of on the Lexington market and during the sales season hundreds of wagons loaded with the weed pass through Paris enroute to the Lexington markets, from the lower counties. All of this tobacco in the course of a season would find its way to the Paris brakes.

Another strong inducement for manufacturers to buy all the tobacco that might be offered in Paris is the admirable railroad facilities, and the successful establishment of a loose leaf market would eventually, so many believe, result in the establishment in this city of tobacco manufacturing plants to manufacture different brands of tobacco for smoking and chewing purposes.

The promoters of the enterprise plan to erect an immense redrying plant with a capacity of handling 100,000 pounds of tobacco daily. A location for the plant has not been discussed but there are a number of tracts of ground that would furnish excellent receiving and shipping facilities.

Vaudeville Next Monday.

Two Fined for Scrapping.

Geneva Ross, colored, charged with a breach of the peace, was before Judge E. B. January yesterday morning and was fined $7.50. Nathan Wells, also colored, and on the same charge, was assessed a fine of $12.50. The couple had engaged in a quarrel on Eighth street at an early hour Sunday morning and it is alleged Wells struck the Ross woman. They were arrested by Patrolman Bishop.

Narrow Escape.

Sunday afternoon while driving along Seventh street Mrs. Howard Lancaster and her father, Mr. Noah Sagaser, narrowly escaped serious injury when a buggy driven by Lemon Berry, colored, collided with them demolishing the vehicle they were driving and throwing them out. Mr. Sagaser, who is eighty years of age, sustained a few bruises. A warrant was issued for Terry yesterday charging him with reckless driving.

Paris Boys Before Grand Jury.

Quite an exciting experience befell the Paris High School basketball team, and several students who accompanied them to Richmond to play the Model School team, a department of the Normal, Wednesday. In roaming over the city taking in the sights for the purpose of killing time until the hour of the game, they decided to have a game of pool.

The grand jury, in session, was stationed in a position so that they saw the lads when entering the pool room. Owing to the young looks of the bunch, they set a spy to watch if any played. Sheriff McCord was the detective, and when the lads had finished their game, he invited them to go with him to the grand jury room, which they, for the moment protested, but yielded. As all of them were minors, several indictments were returned against the proprietor, Moreland Creekmore. The Paris team met defeat by a score of 25 to 12.

Solomon Vannerty, Jr., Charles W. Pithian, Fay Ardery, and Mr. Warfield Gratz.

—Mr. Wilson Ingles celebrated the seventieth anniversary of his birth Sunday with an elegant course dinner. Those present were his brothers, Messrs. Ben Ingles, of Lexington, and Boone Ingles, of Carlisle, and sister, Mrs. F. J. Cheek, of Danville. Mr. Ben Ingles was accompanied by his wife and daughter, Miss Margaret. Mr. Boone Ingles by his wife and Mrs. Cheek by her little son, Samuel.

—The pupils of the eighth grade of the Paris High School gave a surprise party to their classmate, Miss Ellen Henry. Each member of the class appeared at Miss Henry's home on South Main street with a basket of refreshments. Music and games were indulged in. Those present were Misses Margaret Douglas, Christine Bramlette, Gertrude Slicer, Louise Kenney.

Have You Tried It?

There is a bottle of Cardui waiting for you at the drug store. Have you tried it? If not, we urge you to do so, before your troubles have obtained such a hold on you, that nothing will drive them out. Even now, it may be nearly too late. But try it anyhow. If anything can help you, Cardui will. It has helped in thousands of cases, where other medicines had been tried in vain. Why should it not do the same for you?

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"My daughter, Octava, would have been in her grave today, had it not been for that fine medicine, Cardui," writes Mrs. Laura Lawrence, of Drennon Springs, Ky. "Nothing I tried helped my daughter, until she had taken Cardui. I had sent for the doctor, when I thought of your medicine and got a $1 bottle. When she had taken four doses she became all right. I often recommend Cardui to my friends."

Your druggist sells Cardui with full instructions for use on the bottle.

The Famous Rayo

Gives the Best Light at Any Price

When you pay more than the Rayo price for a lamp, you are paying for extra decorations that cannot add to the quality of the light. You can't pay for a better light, because there is none. An oil light has the least effect on the human eye, and the Rayo Lamp is the best oil lamp made, though low in price. You can pay $5, $10, or $20 for some other lamp, and although you get a more costly lamp, you can't get a better light than the white, mellow, diffused, unflickering light of the low-priced Rayo.

Has a strong, durable shade-holder. This season's burner adds to the strength and appearance. Made of solid brass, nickel-plated, and easily polished.

A Tabor Story.

Count Boyenta, Mme. Modjeska's husband, was arranging with Secator Tabor for Modjeska's first appearance in Denver, and the founder of dramatic art in Denver asked what parts she played.

"Well," said the count, "there is 'Mary Stuart'."

"Who wrote it?" asked Tabor.

"Schiller," said the count.

"Is he a first class dramatist?" asked Tabor.

"Surely, surely," said the count. "He is most illustrious."

"Humph! Never heard of him," commented Tabor. "What else does she do?"

"As You Like It," "Antony and Cleopatra," "Macbeth!"

"Who wrote them?"

"Shakespeare."

"How's he? Good writer?"

"Excellent, excellent."

"Well," said Tabor ruminatively, "these fellows may be all right as authors, but they ain't well enough known to suit the people out here. What we want is something popular, something that everybody's heard of. I tell you what you do—you get her to give us something of Hoyt's!"

Fearful Fate of Ravallac.

In these days when executions, if held at all, are mostly carried out in private, it is difficult for us to understand the feelings of savagery with which an old time mob witnessed a popular execution. Here is Blondelle Burton's account—from "The Fate of Henry of Navarre"—of the scene when Ravallac, the assassin of the king, had, after shocking tortures, been torn asunder by wild horses: "The executioner had begun to dismember him and was about to cast his remains into the second cauldron when the vast crowd prevented him from doing so. They each required a portion of the body of the king's assassin, and most of them obtained one. That night many bonfires blazed in and around Paris, and in their midst were consumed pieces of Ravallac's frame; on barn doors in other places were nailed similar scraps of his body, as hawks and owls and carrion crows were nailed as a warning to others of their breed."

Grant and Pickett.

New evidence that the great men are the true men—true to themselves, to their country and to their friends—appears in a story told in Colonel Nicholas Smith's book, "Grant, the Man of Mystery." While Grant was president General G. E. Pickett, who led the fatal charge against the Union forces the last day at Gettysburg, called at the White House to pay his respects. Grant knew that his old comrade at West Point had been made a poor man by the war and offered him the marshalship of Virginia. While sorely needing help, General Pickett knew the heavy draft made upon the president by office seekers.

"You can't afford to do this for me," he said, "and I can't afford to take it." "I can afford to do anything I please that is right," Grant replied quietly.

Peppered Ice Cream.

"There's pepper in that," said a restaurant waiter, pointing to a small silver shaker he had placed beside a heaping dish of ice cream he was carrying to a guest. "Sure, it's to put on the ice cream, too," he replied when an inquirer failed to see the connection between the two.

"Lots of folks want to put pepper on their ices. You see, if a man's stomach is sensitive the cold cream hurts him, but pepper is stimulating enough to overcome the effects of the cold. And the funny thing is that you don't taste the pepper at all. The ice cream is so cold that it kills the other. If you don't believe it I'll give you some with pepper, and you'll find that there's no taste of pepper there at all."

There wasn't.—New York Sun.

Miles' Grave.

"Which is the deepest, the longest, the broadest and the smallest grave in the churchyard?" said a pedestrian to his companion while meditating among the tombs in the burying ground at Esher.

"Why," replied his companion, "it is that in which poor Miles Button lies buried, for it contains Miles below the sod, Miles in length and Miles in breadth, and yet, after all, it is but a Button-hole."—Pearson's Weekly.

Effect of Tight Lacing.

"Is tight lacing unwise?" a teacher asked a young lady in a physiology lesson.

"Yes, it is very unwise," was the reply.

"Why is it unwise?" the teacher pursued.

"Because it busts the corset," said the young lady.—Exchange.

To a Flanders 20 is Credited the Most Remarkable Endurance Feat of the Season of 1910.

A stock car left Quebec, Canada, June 6th, and after an uninterrupted journey of 4,128 miles, arrived at Mexico City, August 3rd.

One of the first of the 1911 models to reach the Pacific Coast, a four passenger "Suburban," won a unique distinction by the Longest Non-Stop Run in the Annals of Motordom.

The motor was started December 2nd, and was run continuously, not even stopping when the car was at rest taking on supplies. On December 28th the car passed the former record of 10,974.4, continuing to traverse the streets of and roads of Los Angeles until it had placed the figures at a point out of reach of all competition for years to come.

Later, on December 30th, the car's record was 10,872 miles. The run was under the auspices of the Automobile Association of Southern California, and observer from which was always on the car, day and night.

Flanders Cars are among the cheapest to maintain, the actual running expenses at the present price of tires, being less than 3 per cent. per mile. For sale by

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—Think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad thing. So there is no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, of Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's Few Discoveries for thirty years, and it is the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it forty years. It is the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequaled for lagrippe, asthma, hayfever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Oberdorfer.

FUNERAL DIRECTOR AND LICENSED EMBALMER.

BOTH PHONES—DAY 137; NIGHT 299.

A Buttered Book.

How the Rev. Mr. Johnston, a Scottish minister and the author of numerous books, succeeded in getting one of his works reviewed by Alexander Russell, the distinguished editor of the Scotsman, is told by the writer of "Famous Editors."

A member of Mr. Johnston's congregation was an old and valued servant in Mr. Russell's family. When the preacher published his new book he asked this member to bring it under the notice of her master, with the request to review it in the columns of the Scotsman. Glad to be of service to her master, the good woman lost no time in making her wish known to the celebrated editor and next morning placed "The Gospel Roll" beside his breakfast cup.

When at breakfast Mr. Russell took up the book and remarked, with a merry twinkle in his eye, "Helen, this is an awful dry roll which you have given me this morning."

"Perhaps it is, sir," the servant quickly replied, "but you can butter it well on both sides."

Next morning an excellent review appeared.

Conkling and Thurman.

Senator Roscoe Conkling was once addressing the senate in an impassioned manner and seemed to direct his remarks to Senator Thurman. At length the latter got irritated.

"Does the senator from New York," he roared, "expect me to answer him every time he turns to me?"

For a moment Mr. Conkling hesitated, and everybody expected a terrific explosion. Then, with an air of exquisite courtesy, he replied:

"When I speak of the law I turn to the senator from Ohio as the Mussulman turns toward Mecca. I turn to him as I do to the English common law as the world's most copious fountain of human jurisprudence."

The usually decorous senate broke into a storm of applause, and the Thurman eye moistened a little. The two statesmen were the best of friends and greatly enjoyed each other's society when "off duty."

A Wetter if Not a Better Man.

A little man in the west of England rushed to the river last summer, swearing loudly that he would drown himself. When he had waded in to the depth of his waist his wife, who had followed him, seized him by the hair, and then, as a local editor described it, she led him back till he reached a place where the water was about two feet deep, where she pulled him over backward and soiled him under and pulled his head up again. "Drown yourself (down he went), leaving me to father the brats! (Another plunge.) Get drunk (another source) and start for the river! (Another dip.) Better use the water instead of rum! (Another dip and shake of the head.) I'll have you to leave me a widow!" After sozzling him to her heart's content she led him out a wetter if not a better man and escorted him into the house and closed the door.

The Gordian Knot.

The famous Gordian knot was made of leather taken from some part of the harness belonging to the chariot of Gordius, king of Phrygia. It seems that this knot was so tied that the ends of the leather thong were not visible, hence the difficulty in loosening it. Many must have tried to untie it, for its fame as a "sticker" at last reached the great oracle, which declared that the lucky experimenter should be rewarded by the kingship of Persia. Alexander, trying his hand and meeting with no better success than the others, drew his sword and cut into the knot until he found the ends of it.

Right to the Point.

When the lord chief justice visited Ireland he was often entertained by a hospitable gentleman who had an old butler, who took the privilege of speaking his mind freely. On one occasion the claret did not quite meet the host's approval, so he called the ancient butler and said:

"I told you you were to put the best claret on the table. Is this the best?"

"No, sir, it is not the best claret," replied the old fellow, "but it's the best ye've got."—London Tit-Bits.

Knew He Was Worshipped.

"In Paris Mr. Whistler and an English painter got into a very turbulent argument about Velasquez at a studio tea," said an artist. "Mr. Whistler at one point in the argument praised himself extravagantly. The Englishman, listening, sneered and said at the end: 'It's a good thing we can't see ourselves as others see us.'"

"Isn't it, though?" said Mr. Whistler. "I know in my case I should grow intolerably conceited."

Theology and the Thermometer.

A point of theology is raised by Sir Francis Younghusband in "India and Tibet." "An interesting detail," he says, speaking of the religion of the natives, "is that their hell is not hot, but cold. If it were hot the inhabitants of frozen Tibet would all flock there."

Clever Auntie.

Traveler—it seems wonderful that Japanese dentists can take out teeth with their fingers. Little Jack-Auntie can take out hers with her fingers—every one of 'em!

Perfection.

Perfection does not exist. To understand it is the triumph of human intelligence; to desire to possess it is the most dangerous kind of madness.—Alfred de Musset.

Sn every day takes out a patent for some new invention.—Whipple.

He Obeyed Orders.

General Dabney H. Maury in his "Incidents of General T. J. Jackson" says that when the war between the states broke out Jackson was the professor of mathematics at the Military College of the South. He wished strongly to take command of a cadet corps, but the heads of the institution were desirous to have him continue his teaching. Governor Wise called out the state troops and ordered that a corps of cadets be held ready for immediate service. Jackson, then major, reported at once at the guard-room as ready for duty. General Smith said:

"Major Jackson, you will remain as you are until further orders."

Jackson at that moment was sitting on a camp stool in the guardroom with his saber across his knees. At reveille the next morning he was found in the same position.

"Why, major, why are you here?" exclaimed General Smith.

"Because last night you ordered me to remain where I was," was the reply.

Royal Jewels in Pawn.

The ex-Sultan Abdul Aziz pawned all his crown jewels for a million francs at the Mont de Piete at Paris, and they were only just redeemed by the Moorish government in time to prevent their being sold among other unredemmed goods.

The sword of state, which is regarded in Serbia as a sacred relic, was also pawned by a former king, while one well known European monarch found himself in such straitened circumstances that the famous house of Attenborough once temporarily had possession of all his old silver.

Queen Isabella was, however, the most famous royalty who made no secret of the fact that she raised money upon the security of the portraits of her ancestors, which hung on the walls at the palace Catile, her Parisian home. The royal lady often declared how deeply she was indebted to her royal forbears for coming to her rescue and helping her out of her financial predicaments.—London M. A. P.

The Road to Success.

Just tack this up somewhere where you can see it:

Success consists in getting out of yourself everything that's in you. It does not consist in doing almost quite as much or a little more than the other fellow. What the other fellow does doesn't amount to a dent in a door-knob so far as you are concerned. The fact that he succeeds by laying an Atlantic cable, building an Eiffel tower, inventing wireless telegraphy or cornering the world's supply of oil doesn't make you a failure because you haven't got enough ready money to buy an automobile. You're successful when you put to some useful purpose every ounce of energy, every grain of gray matter, every mite of muscle that you've got. You're successful when you've developed all there is to you and have given that to the world.—Pittsburg Gazette-Times.

A Hard Hearted People.

Filial piety finds no place in Tibetan character. It is no uncommon thing for a son to turn his father, when too old for work, out of doors and to leave him to perish in the cold. The superstition that the souls of the dead can, if they will, haunt the living drives their hardened natures to gain by the exercise of cruelty the promise of the dying that they will not return to earth. As death approaches the dying person is asked, "Will you come back or will you not?" If he replies that he will they pull a leather bag over his head and smother him. If he says he will not he is allowed to die in peace.

A Lightning Change Artist.

The rapidity with which chameleons change their color is marvelous. You gather one from an outdoor shrub and it immediately becomes dark, almost black, hissing and with its mouth wide open, threatening to bite. Meanwhile it is never still, but continues to crawl upward whenever possible—up you, up your sleeve, always upward. By degrees the angry black changes into whatever color is nearest. If one's dress is of a brownish color so is the chameleon's.

The Real Thing.

"This," said the young benedict who was just realizing that he had caught a tartar, "is what I call real married life."

"I'm glad you're satisfied with something," she snapped.

"Oh, I'm not! I merely meant to inform you that it is not ideal."—Philadelphia Ledger.

His Good Action.

A little Canadian boy went to bed and then suddenly recollected that he hadn't done one good action that day. His conscience was gnawing at him. He heard a little squeal in the corner of his room, and he got up and released a mouse that had been caught in the trap. Then he gave it to the cat.

Expensive Fiction.

"Is that picture really a work of art?"

"I don't know," replied Mr. Cumrox, "but the story the dealer told me about it surely was."—Washington Star.

Enough Said.

"Thrifty, is she?"

"Thrifty! I won't go into a long discourse. I merely tell you that she banks money in December."—Washington Herald.

His Dilemma.

"For $200 I'll fix your teeth so you can chew without difficulty."

"If I was to give you $200 I couldn't get anything to chew on."—Life.

Fox as a Gamester.

Charles James Fox, the English statesman, was even more notorious in the gaming world than he was famous in the world of politics. He had squandered $250,000 before coming of age. He became one of the most profligate gamesters of the vicious days in which he lived. Some of his finest displays in debate were sandwiched between excitement such as would unnerve most men who had no serious business on hand. Walpole has given a glimpse of a typical passage in this extraordinary man's life. He had to take part in the discussion on the thirty-nine articles in parliament on a certain Thursday. He had sat up playing hazard from Tuesday evening until 5 o'clock on Wednesday afternoon. An hour before he had recovered $50,000 that he had lost and by dinner time, which was 5 o'clock, ended losing $55,000. On Thursday he spoke in the debate, went to dinner at past 11 at night; thence to a club, where he drank till 7 the next morning; thence to a gambling house, where he won $30,000, and between 3 and 4 in the afternoon he set out on a journey to Newmarket.

Pirates and Strategy.

The virtuous island of Sark was not always so. When Edward III. was king, Sark was a haunt of pirates and wreckers. Sir A. Conan Doyle in "Sir Nigel" tells how they lived upon the island, "but from what they can gather upon the sea around it. They are broken folk from all countries—justice fliers, prison breakers, reavers, escaped bondsmen, murderers and staff breakers who have made their way to this outland place and hold it against all comers." The merchants of Rye and Winchelsea fitted out an expedition against those scourges of the narrow seas. A landing was obtained by strategy. Leave was obtained to bury a suppositions dead sailor on the island, the burying party to come unarmed. But that apparent coffin was filled with weapons, and so was Sark cleansed of its evil inhabitants.—London Standard.

Free Sample For Baby's Ills

Something can and must be done for the puny, crying baby, for the child that refuses to eat and is restless in its sleep. And since the basis of all health is the proper working of the digestive organs, look first to the condition of the stomach and bowels.

A child should have two full and free movements of the bowels a day. This emptying of the bowels is very important, as with it comes a clear head, a lightness of step, good appetite and sound sleep. But it is equally important to know what to give the child in the emergency of constipation and indigestion. Cathartics are too strong and salts and other purgatives are not only too strong, but the child refuses them because of their bad taste. Have you ever tried Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin? It is a liquid tonic that families have been using for a quarter of a century. It is mild, pleasant-tasting and promptly effective. It is good for you as well as the child, but there is nothing better to be found for children. They like its taste—you will not have to force them to take it.

First of all, if you have not yet used it, Dr. Caldwell would like to send you a sample bottle free of charge. In this way you can try it before buying. Later, when convinced of its merits, you can get it of your druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, just as thousands of other families are doing. The family of Mr. D. W. Spangler of Strattonville, Pa., as well as that of Mr. A. F. Johnson of Walnut Grove, Tenn., started with it in that way and now write that it is their one family necessity next to food itself. If you are unfortunate enough to have a sickly child, one given to constipation and indigestion, you should send for a free sample of this remedy. Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in a letter and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address on a postal card or otherwise. For further request the doctor's address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R.500 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

Attack Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuscles attack like tigers disease germs. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Calif., "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try Them. 50 cents at Oberdorfer's.

Proof Positive.

"Thrifty, is she?" "Thrifty? I won't go into a long discourse. I merely tell you that she banks money in December."

Accuse of Stealing.

E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Me., boldly accuses Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds—the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles. "It robs cuts, corns, bruises or injuries of their terror," he says, "as a healing remedy its equal don't exist. Only 25 cents at Oberdorfer's."

One of the largest stock sales ever held here was that of Vincent & McIntyre Saturday beginning at 9 o'clock a. m. and continuing until about four. It had been well advertised and the weather, which had been unpropitious during the entire week, became mild and bright on that day. From six hundred to eight hundred people were present. The bidding was spirited, considering the large amount of stock offered. The sale, however, lost a little of its life near the close as it was getting late and it is claimed by some that a few of the horses did not bring as much as they otherwise would have done. Most of the large crowd present was served with burgoo at noon. Auctioneer Speakes, of Paris, was in charge. About 150 head of sheep, 150 head of hogs and shoats, 40 head of milk cows, 100 cattle and 100 horses and mules constitute the sale. Brood sows sold from $11 to $30; shoats $7 to $8.50; sheep, $1.40 to $7.35; cows, $40 to $100; cattle, $35 to $65; mules in pairs, $320 to $470; mules, single, $87.50 to $222.50; horses, single, $107.50 to $222.50; and draft horse in pairs $400 to $500.

Circuit Clerks Severely Criticized.

In a report filed with the Governor Friday State Inspector Kenzie Todd criticizes the carelessness of many Circuit Clerks of the State in making certificates of witness claims in which witnesses entitled to but one day's attendance get three days. He will send a letter to the clerks about the alleged practice. The report was written following an inspection of the county offices of Marion county. From this county the inspector turns $128.18 into the treasury and from Todd county $50.93.

Vial Dismissed.

Justice Ben D. Bell in Lexington Saturday afternoon announced his decision in the case of John Viall, the erstwhile "King" McNamara who was took there from New York to answer to the charge of having murdered Jacob Keller, and the defendant was dismissed on the ground that he had committed no offense within the jurisdiction of the Courts of Kentucky. Viall was released from the county jail immediately following the decision.

Cut-Out Petitions Presented Le-Bus.

The Pendleton County Board of Control of the Burley Tobacco Society having adopted resolutions to raise no tobacco this year is urging President LeBus to call a meeting of the District Board for consideration of the cut-out question with the recommendation that it be endorsed. Petitions from members of the Burley Tobacco Society in Fayette, Mason and other counties have been presented.

President LeBus is still silent on the subject, but men close to him say that he will not call a special meeting, feeling that the question will be fully considered at the regular meeting of the District Board, the second Tuesday in March.

The purpose of the meeting of the Executive Committee of the Burley Tobacco Union called for Tuesday next remains unexplained. There is, however, conjecture that it has to do with the cut-out.

Sheep Breeders' Meeting.

The Sheep Breeders' Association of Kentucky held its annual meeting in Mt. Sterling Friday night and changed the time of meeting to January, in Lexington.

There was a good attendance and many new members were enrolled, who will make a hard fight to raise the quarantine in Kentucky at once.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: W. T. Cain, Fallsburg, president; Ben Macklin, of Frankfort, vice-president, and W. T. Chilton, of Campbellsburg, secretary and treasurer.
